EMERGENCY MESSAGE

Years ago, soldiers at Fort Dix were fighting a forest fire.

They were out in the forest with the flames all around them when a plane flew over unexpectedly. The unidentified pilot flew very low over the firefighters and began to drop notes with weights tied to them. Three times he did this. This is what the notes said: "You are surrounded by flames and you are going to perish unless you take action immediately. There is one narrow corridor left open, and that is your only escape; before long it will be cut off." The firefighters read the note, obeyed it, and their lives were saved.

A message came from above and told them something they could not know in the midst of the smoke, heat, and furor. Thankfully the firefighters did not question the authenticity or reliability of the note. They acted on it by faith; they acted on it in time; they were saved.

What a picture of society today. We are in a firestorm of trouble; we are in an inferno of problems. We face a rising tide of violence, disease, racism, hatred, and other social ills. God has given us His message from above, and there is a way to escape. That message is the Bible.
